

European Forest Institute
– EFI –

is seeking a Researcher

for Markets and Socio-Economics Research Programme

The post will involve in particular:

- initiating new projects
- coordination of proposal preparation in the programme; and
- coordination of new projects in the programme.

Applicants should have proven skills in proposal writing and preparation, five years of research experience in research and coordination tasks, MSc in forest, environmental or business economics, and a particular knowledge on one of the following research fields: forest products markets and trade, social and economic aspects of private forestry and forest sector, or economics of non-wood goods and services. Proven experience in linkages to governance will be beneficial. We expect fluency in both written and spoken English and good communication skills.

The post will be based at the EFI headquarters in Joensuu, Finland. The successful candidate will be expected to take up the post in autumn 2009. A fixed term appointment of three years is envisaged with an option for extension.

Further information can be obtained from: Dr. Gert-Jan Nabuurs, Assistant Director Tel. +358 10 773 4321 Fax +358 10 773 4377 Email gert-ian.nabuurs@efi.int

Applicants should apply in writing by 17 August 2009, with salary expectations, a CV, a list of successful project proposals prepared by the applicant and a list of most relevant publications. EFI encourages submissions from female applicants.

Please address your application to

Dr. Gert-Jan Nabuurs, Assistant Director, European Forest Institute, Torikatu 34, 80100 Joensuu, Finland

More information on the Research Programme:

http://www.efi.int/portal/research/research_programmes/